

OPPOSITE PERSPECTIVES

DEVELOPING DISCUSSIONS

Step One: Think about two people who would probably have opposite perspectives on an issue. For example, a teen and a parent might have different ideas about what is appropriate to wear to school.

Step Two: Assign yourself one perspective and your partner the other perspective on today's topic. Together, think about and research information that you can list below that supports the two sides.

Step Three: Have a discussion with your partner taking on your assigned perspective. You can use the information from your list above; however try to not read from your list.

Step Four: For an extra challenge, trade perspectives and have a second discussion.
